SCHOOLGIRL DISAPPEARS IN SAANICH

Police Hunting for Man Who Enticed Leona Faulkner Into Taxicab

TOLD DRIVER HE WAS HER FATHER

Saanich police were led on a chase Up-Island yesterday in search of Leona Faulkner, aged eight, who was enticed into an automobile outside the Mackenzie Road school at noon and whisked away to the consternation of her playmates, according to the police report.

Leona, the daughter of Mrs. F. Faulkner of the Carey Road Grocery, had just come out of school and was going home for lunch with some of her playmates when a man drove up in a taxi, got her and commenced to talk to her.

WAS FRIGHTENED

He said he wanted to take her for a ride to Duncan. The girl was to be quite hysterical and stepped into the automobile, apparently afraid to disobey.

While en route to Duncan, the man, who told the taxi driver he was the father of the child, changed the girl's clothing, police said.

No trace of the child has been made since the taxi driver left the man and child at Duncan. Suspicion of the man when he discovered he had changed the girl's clothing, the taxi driver immediately telephoned police and a search was instituted.

MOTHER ALARMED

In the meantime the mother became quite concerned over the absence of her daughter. When she returned for lunch she made inquiries at the school and learned from her little girl's friends of what happened.

Police all yesterday afternoon and evening watched the various ferries and bus stages in the hope of intercepting the man and the girl, but up to late hour last night they apparently had made no attempt to get to the Mainland.

GAY RED POPPY TO BE BANNED

Outlawed B.C. Blooms Have Triple-Strength Morphine Content

Approached last year by many who desired to know how best to eliminate the hairy red poppy which thrives so well in this climate, officials of the Department of Agriculture were delighted to detect an awakening interest in horticulture. Inquiries redoubled this year and inquiries from many countries, not heretofore given overmuch to such study. That was while the character of the poppy was above reproach.

Magnificent in color, large in size, and prolific in growth, the red poppies were in keen demand. Chinese, Indians, used them in medicines. Russians made them into a form of bread. East Indians cultivated them tenderly. And British Columbians accorded them a special place of honor at agricultural shows, where they won first, second and third sometimes even special prizes. The culture of the poppy seemed on the high road to success.

IMPORTS QUERIED

For a time increasing importation of dried poppy seeds puzzled the department, specially in channels which might not ordinarily be expected to purchase such articles. It was found that imports from the Dominion authorities and were answered yesterday in advices from the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

The large flowering red poppy of British Columbia, it seems, contains three times as much morphine as may legally be sold by a druggist in Canada. It is also used in its opiate content is 26 of 1 per cent, not far from that of the papaver somniferum, the base of the opium trade in the Far East.

The R.C.M.P. said succinctly that poppy culture must cease, and that commercial development and sale of the species after December would bring prosecutions under Section 8 of the Narcotic Act.

ARIZONA'S DRY LAW IS HISTORY

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 28.—From his sick-bed in a hospital here Governor George W. P. Hunt today declared Arizona's prohibition law is dead and void.

The seventy-three-year-old executive signed the order without ceremony and carried out the mandate of the electorate at the November 8 general election.

Arizona was one of the first states to enact a prohibition law. It was adopted six years before national prohibition.

The only liquor law now effective in the state is the Federal act.

Vessels Report
"Sargasso" Sea Of Dead Locusts

PORTO ALEGRE, Brazil, Nov. 28 (AP)—A "Sargasso Sea" of dead locusts was reported by crews of incoming vessels today as far west as the Atlantic Ocean about fifty miles off the Rio Grande. Do Sul coast. The insects were reported to cover the water for a distance of several miles, giving an appearance similar to that of the Sargasso Sea, which is known in the North Atlantic by accumulation of weed. It was believed the locusts were carried out to sea by a high wind.

KING IS GIVEN INFORMATION

Talks With Chancellor on War Debts—United States Await Note

LONDON, Nov. 28.—While the King talked with Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain in a special audience tonight, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald continued conferences with Cabinet members, which were expected to conclude tomorrow with completion of a note to the United States requesting an extension of war debt payments.

Meanwhile, the pound sterling slipped from Saturday's close of $3.22 to $3.17 at one time today—a new all time low level—and closed slightly over $3.18.

The King was understood to have asked questions and received answers from Mr. Chamberlain regarding the financial aspects of the peace note.

Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of State, had held separate conferences on the subject with Mr. MacDonald and Montagu Norman, Governor of the Bank of England.

It was almost certain that positive action will be completed tomorrow with suspension of the $95,550,000 debt payment due to the United States on December 15.

FRANCE WILL FOLLOW

PARIS, Nov. 28 (AP)—Premier Edouard Herriot said today that France probably would send another note to the United States on the war debt question. He informed foreign correspondents the note would concern the juridical aspects of the problem, and would leave the door open for further negotiations.

The memorandum still must be approved by the Cabinet. It will be similar to the one now being prepared by the British Government, presenting additional reasons why the December 15 instalment from France, amounting to about $20,000, should be postponed.

HOLD TO POSITION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Holding to the position, European nations failed to present facts which justify a note for postponement of war debt payments due next month, President Herbert Hoover and his advisors tonight awaited the arrival of additional notes from London and Paris.

Secretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills and Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson talked the situation over with the chief executive today, and afterward said no new decisions had been reached and the course of the United States remained unaltered.

They will know more in forty-eight hours, Mr. Mills said in reply to newspapermen's questions on what the nations will do on December 15 when the next instalments fall due.

"Right now we are standing squarely on the President's position that no facts have been presented to warrant suspension of the December 15 payments, and that these payments should be made."

Other Treaties Aimed at Peaceful Relations Between Neighbors Expected to Be Signed Soon

—France Negotiating With Soviet State

MOSCOW, Nov. 28.—Soviet Russia and Poland, long viewed as traditional enemy countries, placed the stamp of final approval today upon two treaties aimed at peaceful relations between neighbors. The act was officially looked upon as presaging a new era of friendly relations between Europe's easternmost country and the nation that lies behind her and much of the rest of the continent.

In the broader sense, foreign circles saw in the two documents the portent points in the general Soviet foreign policy. The document completes a series of similar agreements—save with Romania—between Russia and all her European neighbors.

This was pointed out in the expectation that Russia and France would sign a treaty of nonaggression and conciliation tomorrow.

Since these two—France and Poland—were the last of the large European states close to Russia to complete pacts, foreign circles looked to Russia in the expectation that she would soon follow suit.

The pact with Poland was concluded over long period of negotiation. The first one is a treaty of conciliation, setting up a procedure for settling disputes between the two countries.

Both agree not to grant direct or indirect aid to a third state attacking either of the parties, and not to enter into any understanding, which, from the standpoint of aggression, would be binational to the other party.

The second part is a corollary of conciliation, setting up a procedure for settling disputes between the two countries.

POLICE MAKE LIQUOR RAID

Saanich Resident Charged on Two Counts—Two Cases Remanded

A squad of Saanich police headed by Chief Allan Rankin raided the home of William Jones, Kingsley Street, yesterday afternoon and seized a large quantity of liquor. Jones will appear in Saanich police court today to answer two charges; one of keeping unsaleable liquor and the other of supplying liquor to a minor.

Those participating in the raid were Sergeant Brown, Constable Kenneth Cummings and Constable Eric Ewell.

The case of Sunder Singh, charged under the Excise Act for keeping an illicit still, was remanded to the Saanich police court yesterday until next Monday.

Adolph Bores, also charged in the Saanich court with unlawfully selling liquor, was remanded until Thursday afternoon.

NEW WAVE OF CRIME FOLLOWS ADMISSION BY VANCOUVER CHIEF

While he covered Mrs. Swaine's accomplice looted the cash drawer, then ran to the telephone and tore it from the wall. Both gunmen dashed out the door to where their companion waited in the automobile.

In all four hold-ups were reported within a few hours Saturday night, in addition to the street attack on Mr. F. Sears, West Tenth Avenue. A total of $136,000 was obtained by the gunmen.

Burglars also put in a busy weekend, looting homes. The outstanding burglary was that of the suite of Miss F. Steinback, Oak Street, which was looted of goods valued at $500.

STEALING GUNS

The statement of the police chief, as given to the press for publication, read as follows:

"We are doing everything the law will permit us," he stated, "and I am going to take the necessary steps to check crimes. I am hoping that new legislation will be passed at the present session of the Dominion Parliament that will prohibit the keeping of guns by citizens without a permit."

"Burglars are breaking into homes and stores and stealing the guns now kept by citizens for protection, and the only way we can do is to stop this source of arms of the broadening of the law. It is impossible to stop persons on the street and search them. If we do that there will be actions against the police which it cannot afford at the present time. There is one case now pending."

"We cannot go too far either way. Under existing legislation we cannot do more than at present," Chief Edgett concluded.

REPORT GOES TO LEAGUE ASSEMBLY

Lyton Recommendations on Manchurian Question to Be Discussed at Special Meeting

GENEVA, Nov. 28 (AP)—The Lyton Commission's Manchurian report passed today from the League of Nations Council to a special League assembly convened for December 6, which will consider it and attempt to arrive at a settlement of the Far Eastern conflict.

Yosuka Matsukawa, Japan's spokesman before the council, entered his nation's reservation to this action in line with the Tokio policy that the assembly is not competent to settle the Sino-Japanese question. Mr. Matsukawa refrained from voting on the question of passing the report to the assembly.

Paul Hymans, of Belgium, president of the assembly, will summon the committee of nineteen into session Thursday, at which time preparations will be made for the plenary assembly meeting.

BOAT SWAMPS IN HEAVY TIDE RIPS AND THREE DROWN

reading comfortably last night, attended by Dr. E. W. P... who met the Charlotte on her arrival here.

BOAT BROUGHT HERE

Capt. C. S. Sainty, master of the Charlotte, shortly after his ship docked, related the circumstances leading up to the rescue. He had seen the object with the man on it, but he and the other officers thought it was a large bird on a drift log or raft. The boat was brought here and landed on the Belleville Street dock. The lifeboat which rescued Berry was in charge of Third Officer Ronald Hicks.

Bone survivor of a clam-digging party of four unemployed Seattle men, who were endeavoring to augment slim family larders, Berry, propped up with pillows and a coat, lay in a number of sheets. Joseph's Hospital late night, was making a brave fight to stave off pneumonia. Suffering from exhaustion and bruised in body and limb as a result of being beaten against the boat by the waves when he endeavored to save his comrade, he related the story of midwinter travel with remarkable clarity and calmness.

"I am a barber by occupation," he stated, "and formerly operated my own shop in Seattle. Lately things haven't been so good, and there's been only one day's work a week since Christmas. Some companies like us unemployed, are still here. Phillip Carpenter, who owned the boat, was a married man and leaves a widow with eight children; Fred Rowley was his brother-in-law, and lived with me; Marley, whose occupation I do not know, was a stranger to me and we first met shortly before the time we left Seattle.

WAITED FOR TIDE

It was Carpenter who suggested the clam-digging party to replenish the family larders and the outing was agreed to. We left Seattle about 4:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, and darkness was descending when we passed through the mouth of the Columbia River. At 7 and 7:30 o'clock that evening, we built a fire and had something to eat, waiting for the tide.

At 11:30 o'clock the tide started to run out and we dug about five sacks of clams. It was then about 11:30 o'clock. In the meantime the wind had freshened, and we waited until 2:30 o'clock this morning, when it appeared to be calmer. Carpenter suggested to return, but as all four of us were unemployed, I suggested to wait until daylight and a calm sea. At 3 o'clock the wind had died down to a light breeze and Carpenter thought it safe to venture home, so I climbed up into a position in the centre seat and rowed the boat back to shore, while the motor was started. Carpenter said we would be in Seattle in an hour and a quarter.

WIND FRESHENED

"Shortly after we started, the wind freshened again and our stern and bow lights went out. I lit an old-fashioned lantern as we began to drift, and when the boat began to slow down and this was done, but the water continued to come in, so I shifted the sacks of clams from the bow to the centre of the boat, where Rowley and Marley sat. Carpenter was in the stern watching the motor and I sat down in the bottom so Carpenter could have an unobstructed view of the breakers and how best to take them. They were getting bigger all the time, but we got along very well for a while with the nose of the boat in the wake of the stern and rowed the boat back to shore, while the motor was started. Carpenter said we would be in Seattle in an hour and a quarter.

WIND FRESHENED

"I managed to get hold of the oars, but before I could get them in the rowlocks the stern sank lower, I was lifted high in the bow and the boat turned over, throwing us into the water. We all came up and clung to the boat.

We could see the lights of Seattle, which were about seven miles away. I should judge at that time. After drifting for some fifteen minutes, I noticed that Marley was becoming weaker. I got the bows rope and threw it to the centre of the boat, so as to take hold and straddle the propeller while I sat astride the bow to keep the craft from overturning again. Marley, however, gradually grew weaker and suddenly Carpenter shouted, 'There goes poor Marley.' Marley said it without a word, arms clasped as if cramped. We didn't see him again.

"Berry, throw out the gas and clams and grab the oars; we are swamped."

"I managed to get hold of the oars, but before I could get them in the rowlocks the stern sank lower, I was lifted high in the bow and the boat turned over again, Carpenter couldn't get up on the boat this time and I locked fingers with him, managing to get his hip and elbow up so he could clasp a cleat. Then I pulled Rowley back on. Another bullet broke over the boat and sliced off again, but managed to get back. The boat passed just as day was breaking, but did not see us. Carpenter murmured, 'Tough luck boys.'

"It couldn't last. We went off several times, then I heard Carpenter slipped away just like Marley, and shortly afterwards Rowley followed him, without a word. Seven boats passed, but it was getting hazy and they didn't see us. I kept shouting into my voice box, shouting and shouting the boat and clutching the bow rope. The wind changed, and the boat drifted out into the channel. I saw a large steamer and stood up. When a wave would come I sat down. Then the boat turned over again, and some difficulty in getting back."

"The large steamer by this time had passed on, and I just about gave up. Then the boat swerved a bit, and I saw the big ship swinging around, and shortly after a lifeboat came alongside. I tried to step in, but there was no room in my legs. On the deck of the ferry ship I started to walk, but I do not remember much of anything since, only that it looks as though I had been treated well."

"I found myself in a berth with everyone trying to be kind to me. These Canadians are wonderfully kind people. Hot drinks and cigarettes and all those asking if they can do anything for me. I can't repay them. Would like to see my wife, but times are tough and only get one day's work a week."

MADE POPULAR BY NEW PLAYS

reading Little Playhouse in Montreal Scene of Interesting Experiment

MONTRÉAL, Nov. 28 (CP)—What is known in Montreal as the "north-end" has a little theatre, popularly known as the "Savoy," on the North American continent, which draws its audiences from Montreal's French-speaking population and that not inconsiderable proportion which speaks and understands French, although of sturdy Anglo-Saxon stock.

Not very large, devoid of flamboyant electric lights, boasting no Turkish carpets or elaborate portieres, the "Stella" is nevertheless a pleasing little playhouse which will soon be the scene of an interesting experiment.

A STERLING GROUP

Operated by a sterling group of professional actors, the "Stella" has specialized in the past few years in producing plays of a serious nature, and gently satirical comedies. A steady-going, devoted list of customers has been built up and lately the troupe has been experimenting with a more serious repertoire. Attendance did not fall off as many had predicted and regular "Stella" audiences demanded their capacity to enjoy drama or tragedy, rather than that built around amusing and clever, but generally unimportant plots.

With the announcement that the "direction artistique" of the "Stella" is to be given to Henri Leonton, journalist, dramatic and musical critic, the theatre enters a period of experimentation which it is hoped will not undermine its popularity.

Although his name was not mentioned, it is believed Mr. Leonton intends to run the theatre more or less along the lines of Eva Le Gallienne's famous New York repertory theatre.

NON-FRENCH PLAYS

One immediate change which will be introduced will be the staging of plays in contemporary non-French playwrights. The names of Bernhard Shaw and Max Reinhardt have been mentioned. Mr. Leonton may also decide that older plays by French writers might occasionally be staged without necessarily dipping into the dyed-in-the-blue repertoire of the French language.

Contemporary French playwrights, however, will not undermine its critical standing. Although his name was not mentioned, it is believed Mr. Leonton intends to run the theatre more or less along the lines of Eva Le Gallienne's famous New York repertory theatre.

A. E. MALLETT IS CANDIDATE

To Seek Post of Police Commissioner in Oak Bay at Coming Election

Arthur E. Mallett, 1581 Wilmet Place, who represents R. G. Dunn & Company here, announces that he will be a candidate for the office of police commissioner for Oak Bay at the coming election. He has had experience in the position before and says that he is aspiring to the office at this time, having uncen-sored the City W. E. Taylor, police commissioner, whose term expires this year, is not going to again offer himself.

Captain Tapley, however, says that he has not yet made up his mind whether he will seek re-election. He has been in office for eight or nine years and is known to all residents of the municipality.

The election is still many weeks away. Captain Tapley feels that there is plenty of time to make up his mind in the matter.

It is therefore possible that there may be a contest for the post of police commissioner in Oak Bay at the election in January.

Demonstrators Escorted From London

operation of citizens, under-nourished children at local public schools who are provided with a free meal each day, at school during the lunch hour.

As outlined by Colonel Monk, it is planned to have a certain portion of bonds sold in the city, solely for the purpose of providing work for about 150 women a month. These bonds would be turned into cash at City Treasurer's office and the money used for paying the women employed.

By agreement with Sunshine Inn, food will be donated for the meals, which are to be served at the school by the women. The reason for this new move, Colonel Monk stated, is that cases of under-nourished children are becoming daily and some methods is required to provide necessary food for them in order that they will be able to work satisfactorily at their studies. A survey is now under way to determine whether the need is great enough and would justify this new proposal being undertaken.

Officials of I.O.D.E. and committee members of the Women's Workroom and Sunshine Inn have promised to sell the bonds to be allocated for this work if the plan goes ahead.

CANDIDATURE IS ANNOUNCED

Alt. H. O. Litchfield Seeks Re-election to Council—Has Served Under Four Mayors

Alderman H. O. Litchfield yesterday announced his candidature for alderman. With the exception of Alderman W. T. Strath, all retiring members of the council are now seeking re-election.

The alderman, in offering himself for office again, states he has had a wide and varied experience, having served under four mayors on the council and school board.

He has acted on all council committees except two, and the city's representative on the board of directors of the British Columbia Agricultural Association.

As chairman of the land and zoning committee, Alderman Litchfield has been identified with the city's revised lot problem. He announces that the revenue from the land department this year will be more than $26,000.

He has been in close contact with the Royal Jubilee Hospital, Alderman Litchfield advocates careful scrutiny and just treatment of the claims of this institution until such times as a Dominion system of taking care of sick and indigent is evolved.

Members of City Council to Speak At Public Meeting

THE Mayor and members of the City Council will give an account of their stewardship at a public meeting to be held in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium at 8 o'clock tonight.

The meeting has been called by Alderman P. R. Brown, chairman of the finance committee, and in conformity with the policy established at last Friday's meeting, the protests were forwarded to Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Premier S. F. Tomlin, Hon. J. W. Jones and the Province relief committee.

Last night's complaint was in the form of a petition signed by four property holders, who are on the direct relief list. They complained that under the new scale they would not receive shelter allowance like those who rented homes.

They wanted to know if they were to be penalized for having exercised economy in past years, and for having built their own hand-made savings in a home, since the new scale was enforced, they said, they would lose their homes and with them their life earnings.

HOME OWNERS SUFFER

Alderman P. R. Brown in referring to the petition to the Provincial Government and Prime Minister of Canada declared: "It looks to me as if such people are going to suffer for investing in their own homes."

Alderman Alex Peden, chairman of the relief committee, stated every effort had been made to remedy the situation.

Every municipality had protested against the denying of property tax relief or a shelter allowance, but the Government had been adamant. There was but one thing for the city to do, and that was to pass these protests along to the right source, he said.

FORMER VICTORIA RESIDENT DIES

The death occurred at Powell River on November 26, of Margaret Rachel, wife of Alfred Denton, formerly of Victoria.

Mrs. Denton, who was forty-nine years of age at the time of her death, was born in Ontario. She had lived for many years in British Columbia, and was a member of the Women of the Moose, Powell River, she is survived by her husband, a daughter, Alice, and a son, Bryant, all residents of Powell River.

The remains will be received on Monday at Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel, where they will repose until the funeral service, which will be conducted on Wednesday at 2 o'clock. Interment will be made in Royal Oak Burial Park.

MRS. JESSIE CRANN DIES

The death took place Sunday morning at the home of her son, John A. Crann, 2053 Meadow Place, of Mrs. Jessie Arnett Crann, aged seventy-six years. Born in Eaglesham, Scotland, she had been a resident of this city for two years and a resident of Vancouver for twenty years. There survive two sons, John A. of this city, and Bennie Crann, of Seattle. The remains are reposing at the Sands Mortuary Limited Chapel and will be forwarded this evening to Vancouver, where they will be conducted at the Nutt & Thompson Funeral Chapel on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The remains will be laid to rest in the family plot at Ocean View Cemetery.

AGED PERSONS PASSES

There passed away on Monday in Saanich, Thomas Herbert Street, aged eighty-four years. Mr. Street was born in New Brunswick and had resided in the province for thirty-three years. His wife predeceased him on November 18 of this year. The funeral will take place on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at McCall Bros. Funeral Home. Canon H. W. Stocken will conduct the service, after which interment will be made in Royal Oak Burial Park.

LAID AT REST

On Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock Rev. A. M. Acheson-Lyle conducted the funeral service for Margaret Jennet Tennant, in the presence of a very large gathering of former friends. Interment was made at Ross Bay Cemetery, the following day. The service will be conducted on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at St. Andrew's Cathedral by Rev. Father Colloton. Interment will be made at Ross Bay Cemetery.

FUNERAL SERVICE

This morning at 9 o'clock Mass for the repose of the soul of Joannina White will be celebrated at St. Andrew's Cathedral by Rev. Father Colloton. Interment will be made at Ross Bay Cemetery.

DAIRY CATTLE ARE INSPECTED

Dominion-Provincial Cow Testing Drive Gives Ex- cellent Results

While the tests are incomplete as a whole, one quarter carried out, 11,244 dairy cattle tested by Dominion inspectors in the Fraser Valley T.B.-free area this month gave only seventy-five reactors. It was learned yesterday at the Department of Agriculture. This works out at .675 of 1 per cent, which ratio is expected to drop materially when all herds have been inspected.

Tests on 6,774 dairy cattle were tested for a reaction of 7.9 per cent. This reaction dropped to only .37 of 1 per cent in 1929, the next test. Upwards of 60,000 head of cattle will be inspected this time, in a campaign which will last several months. The cattle tested already comprised 100 per cent of all herds known to be T.B.-free.

Even at .674 per cent, the result is said to be as nearly a clean bill of health as can be desired.

The Provincial Department of Agriculture is co-operating in the tests, through payment of grants for equipment and disposal of animals condemned. Compensation in respect to the herds already tested will be relatively light.

ONTARIO NOTES ARE SOLD IN NEW YORK

TORONTO, Nov. 28.—The Province of Ontario has sold $15,000,000 in 3 1/2 per cent one-year treasury notes.

They were sold in New York yesterday at 97 1/2. The sale was private and the price was not disclosed although the terms are said to have been favorable.

The loan marks the first large piece of financing on the Canadian bond market since the national loan.

Last night's complaint was in the form of a petition signed by four property holders, who are on the direct relief list. They complained that under the new scale they would not receive shelter allowance like those who rented homes.

They wanted to know if they were to be penalized for having exercised economy in past years, and for having built their own hand-made savings in a home, since the new scale was enforced, they said, they would lose their homes and with them their life earnings.

BUILDING TRADE IS MORE ACTIVE

This building activity is on the increase in Victoria, as statistics issued for the month of October as compared with September.

Twenty-one leading Canadian cities, construction amounting to $3,056,137 was authorized as compared with $2,203,530 in September. This is an increase of 38.7 per cent.

MAN IS INJURED IN FIGHT WITH CHINESE

Percy Brook, 728 Pembroke Street, was found lying on Government Street, in an injured condition, by police, last night.

Brook had been fighting with some Chinese near a fruit and vegetable store. During the fight Brook suffered a broken leg below the knee. He was taken to the Jubilee Hospital for medical treatment.

PLANS MADE FOR POULTRY SHOW

Under the auspices of the Victoria Poultry Association, an exhibition of poultry will be held at the Willows Grounds on December 6, 7 and 8. This show, which is being held under the rules laid down by the American Poultry Association, is a forty-second annual event to be conducted by the Victoria organization.

All exhibits must be in place by 1 p.m. on Monday, December 5. The judging will commence early Tuesdays.

As it is impossible to know exactly what birds will be entered, the committee has reserved specials, and will place same during the show, on varieties well represented to which no specials have been allotted.

LARGEST MOTORS BEING INSTALLED ON GREAT VESSEL

The four largest motors ever built for any purpose will propel the new French superliner Normandie, which was launched at St. Nazaire on October 29. These motors are rated at 40,000 horsepower each, giving a maximum speed of 25 knots, a rating of 160,000, according to officials of the General Electric Company, which is acting as consultant to the ship.

The four synchronous propulsion motors and all auxiliary electric equipment for the Normandie were supplied by Alstom, French associate company of the General Electric Company. The previous record for power was set by the two airplane carriers, Saratoga and U.S.S. Lexington. Eight General Electric motors, each rated at 22,500 horsepower, and connected two to each propeller shaft, were used to drive these vessels at 45,000 horsepower for each propeller. The airplane carriers, with 180,000 horsepower, still rank as the world's most powerful ships.

GRASPING AT THE SHADOW

The New York Times does not agree with the attitude of President Hoover and President-elect Roosevelt on war debts. It says that the United States cannot turn a deaf ear to the request of the debtor nations both for a conference to discuss the future of war debts and for the suspension of payments pending a decision being reached. The conference, The Times says, "is a natural and indeed inevitable consequence of the events which have gone before." The European nations have agreed to reduce German reparation to the minimum. This has meant that both Britain and France have lost the sums which they had hitherto been paying on the war debts to the United States. It is this aspect of the situation which has led to the appeal to the United States for a revision of war debts by Britain, France and Belgium. The New York Times then says:

"Suppose we rebuff them. Imagine our Government insisting brusquely upon the letter of its bond. What would be the result? Obviously an immense loss to this country of good will abroad. That would also mean of itself a certain loss in our foreign commerce. And if the attitude of our Government should be both now, and after the fourth of March, absolutely unyielding and should lead to added financial disturbances and a further fall in prices the loss to us would be obviously far greater than could be measured by interest payments on the war debts. This would be the sure way to render them a national liability instead of a possible asset. It would also show that the Government, as a creditor, had not the common sense customary in a private creditor, preventing grasping at the shadow while losing the substance."

PETTY POLITICS

Mr. Mackenzie King seized upon the occasion of the gathering of the Ontario Liberal Association to make an attack on the press of Canada because in large part it has failed to support his opposition to the Imperial trade agreements. He was especially bitter in his strictures on those Liberal newspapers who oppose his stand in this particular, and he suggests some sinister attitude behind their espousal of greater Imperial trade. Mr. King belongs to the type of politician who believes that he is always right. He forgets, in the present instance, that there was a very vital difference of opinion in the Liberal caucus when the Imperial trade treaties were being discussed; that there was a substantial section of his following that believed that the Liberals should not oppose the pacts. The decision finally reached for opposition was one devised purely for political purposes and not because of any inherent faults in the treaties.

Mr. King has done some harm in his opposition but very little. He has struck a discouraging note at a time when the spirit of co-operation is in the air. His attitude if taken seriously would not spur on Canadian producers and manufacturers to take full advantage of the new trade facilities that offer. The fact is that if the people as a whole absorbed his arguments the treaties would be rendered futile. Perhaps that is what the Liberal leader wants. It is an extraordinary conception at a time when efforts are being made everywhere to foster trade and to promote employment.

The saving grace in the situation is that Mr. King cannot dampen the optimism of the people, and the results of those trade treaties have already proved most satisfactory in the growth of inter-Empire trade. It is Mr. King's reputation for statesmanship that has suffered. All the Empire has acquiesced in the treaties. The opposition of Mr. Mackenzie King is a sorry commentary on how politics can be played, even where the most vital interests of the people are at stake.

SIR WALTER SCOTT

English-speaking people everywhere have vied with one another in doing homage to the immortal memory of Scott during the centenary. It has become somewhat the fashion latterly among a small class of critics to attempt to diminish the lustre of Scott's fame by reiterating an allegation that there are to be found in the works of the great novelist certain departures from strict historical accuracy. It is probable that some of those who, parrot-like, repeat this loose talk with an air of sophistry believe that by so doing they may achieve a reputation for historical knowledge or for literary appreciation, but it is also likely that they are personally none too secure on either flank.

One of the most splendid of all the tributes paid to Scott as an historian has recently come from the pen of that very competent historical writer, G. M. Trevelyan, biography by a grateful reading public as belonging in the front rank of British historians along with his famous granduncle. In a recent brief essay he mentions several features of Scott's work which mark him out as a genius of the highest distinction. In the first place Scott was not only the greatest of historical novelists, but also the actual inventor of the historical novel. Secondly, and perhaps an even greater proof of genius, he revolutionized the scope and study of history itself, an achievement of the first order. He wrought this change, moreover, not by his historical works, but through the agency of the Waverley series of novels.

Anyone who wishes to do so may turn to Macaulay's essay on History, written in 1828, and there find a brief and telling exposition of Macaulay's opinion as to how history should be written. "Sir Walter Scott," he says, "has used those fragments of truth which historians have scornfully thrown behind them in a manner which may well excite their envy. He has constructed out of their gleanings works which, even considered as histories, are scarcely less valuable than theirs. But a truly great historian would reclaim those materials which the novelist has appropriated. The history of the government, and the history of the people, would be exhibited in that mode in which alone they can be exhibited justly, in inseparable conjunction and intermixture. We should not then have to look for the wars and votes of the Puritans in "Clarendon," and for their phraseology in "Old Mortality;" for one half of King James in Hume, and for the other half in the "Fortunes of Nigel." Such was Macaulay's theory and everyone knows how well he put it to the proof of practice.

Macaulay's famous third chapter in his History of England is pronounced by Trevelyan as the chief pioneer of social history and the social and economic explanation of political history. When Macaulay, thus powerfully influenced by Scott, began to write, he immediately rendered obsolete, not indeed the matter, but the cold, passionless, and stately style and spirit of Gibbon, Robertson and Hume. This transmutation of both the popular and the learned view of history is, in Trevelyan's opinion, due to the genius of Walter Scott, an achievement which in his opinion must be "recorded as a stage in the history of man's mental evolution."

BAD THINKING

The present economic crisis is a sham crisis, if we only knew it. This aspect of it is made the subject of comment by a writer in My Magazine. He points out that the world has not changed of late; its population has continued to increase, but in other respects it stands or falls where it did. Its inorganic and organic materials remain. Its natural wealth is intact. "It is as capable as ever," he says, "of affording maintenance to mankind. It offers to spirited men just as much opportunity and reward."

In the world of affairs it appears that the pace has slackened; in other words, affairs are neither so active nor so prosperous. The writer in My Magazine says this is not because we have forgotten how to be active or how to produce wealth or how to enjoy it. On the contrary, the sum of useful knowledge is always increasing, and mankind knows better how to do things today than when the Great War began. There are, he says, more clever engines in the world than ever.

The writer admits that a crisis exists in the world of affairs. It is a made crisis due to man himself, and "not a crisis to which mankind is doomed by imponderable forces, or any stroke of fate. It is a sham crisis that has been made by man. Good thinking has taught men what to do with the world. Bad thinking is preventing men from doing the very things they best know how to do. It is a truly amazing condition. We see how true it is that mind is more important than matter. Mind, active and determined, is the master of matter. Mind, inactive and fearful, becomes afraid of matter. As Hamlet said: 'There makes nothing either good or bad, but thinking makes it so.' The world crisis is not a crisis of bad facts but a crisis of bad thoughts. That is what we mean when we denounce it as a sham."

WATERWAYS PROJECT ASSAILED

"A formidable force of opposition has found expression before a Senate committee at Washington against the St. Lawrence waterways project, and the prospects of United States Senate sanction of the Howard Bennett treaty appear to be dim. The Senate has voted to accept the presidential change voted on November 8 last, appear to be slight indeed. In our opinion, the economic reasons given for prosecution of the waterways project were never convincing, and the political danger always has been apparent. We therefore do not regret the course things are taking at Washington. If the treaty is accepted, then we can hope to diminish the prestige of Premier Bennett, but it will surely save him from numerous embarrassments. As to Premier Taschereau, whom time has well served in this matter, we may be sure that he will be quite satisfied with the turn of events concerning a project which he has consistently combated and has made it with all his force. The Prime Minister, Quebec, will make enough trouble on his hands without being called upon to devote his time and energies in opposing the carrying out of an enterprise which, to say the least, falls within the domain of the speculative."—L'Evenement (Quebec).

Note and Comment

By R. H. D.

They never talk who always drink; They always talk who never think.—Prior.

L. D. C. writes from Arnprior, Ont., to the editor of The Ottawa Journal, discussing the subject of university professors and their activities:

Sir—Prof. Scott's naive observation that Mr. Bennett does not understand the difference between socialism and communism he might apply to some college undergraduate brightens with a touch of humor what is otherwise a very irritating performance.

Just at present these learned men are occupied by jobs with the professional associations and other revolutionaries. They talk much of freedom of speech, one of those obscure phrases by which the ignorant of all kinds are bugged and which they apparently intend to make liberty of advancing that which is illegal. One would expect that the wealthy men who support and control the universities would exhibit some dissent, why pay these uneasy characters to refrain from fulfilling their destinies as soap box orators?

Probably there are very few people in Victoria or in British Columbia who have heard of or read about Arnprior, Ont. We know very little about the little town either, but we remember that some years ago there was a very much published there and that the name of the editor of the paper was Macdonald. We also remember that the editorials printed in that paper were so well written and so fair and reasonable in their rather advanced views that the editors of the big daily papers took the little weekly paper on their exchange lists in order that they might have the educational advantage of reading the editorials in the Arnprior paper. We do not know whether the Arnprior paper is still in existence or whether it is doomed by impudent forces, or any stroke of fate. It is a sham crisis that has been made by man. Good thinking has taught men what to do with the world. Bad thinking is preventing men from doing the very things they best know how to do. It is a truly amazing condition. We see how true it is that mind is more important than matter. Mind, active and determined, is the master of matter. Mind, inactive and fearful, becomes afraid of matter. As Hamlet said: 'There makes nothing either good or bad, but thinking makes it so.'

PLACE APPEALS BEFORE VOTERS

Candidates in Civic Campaign Address Big Meeting at Quadra School

Candidates seeking election to vacant seats on the city's administrative boards addressed a well-attended meeting of taxpayers in the Quadra Street School last night. The meeting was one of the largest in point of attendance held in that ward in many years.

Each candidate was given five minutes in which to present his case. Appeals were eloquent and all were given a generous reception. Burges J. Gadsden was chairman of the meeting, which was arranged by E. B. Andros, candidate for the mayorality.

The candidates addressed the gathering in the following order:

CHARLES CHIVERS

Charles Chivers, candidate for the City Council and nominated by the Trades and Labor Council, explained he had been a member of the legislative committee of the labor council for more than ten years and as such had been able to secure an intimate knowledge of municipal affairs. He said the unemployment problem was one that rightly belonged to the Federal Government and he urged that all unite to co-operate in arriving at a solution to the major problem which was wholly in sympathy with the demand that the grant for public works be submitted to a referendum.

F. J. CROWHURST

Frank J. Crowhurst, who is offering himself as a candidate for the City Council, said he was seeking office for the sole purpose of doing what he could to cut down taxation. He quoted figures of uncontrollable expenditures, which he declared were stupendous. "Now is the time for men with courage, determination and experience, and I believe I have those qualifications, and I ask your support at the poll."

ARTHUR HINDER

Arthur Hinder, candidate for the aldermanic ward paid a tribute to Captain Gadsden, chairman, for work in which he is engaged. "As my name is Hinder, I am going to try and hinder any further attempt to increase taxation," Mr. Hinder said. "We are paying the penalty for the increase in improvements taxes and it is time we

Inconsistency in the "City of Peace"

ONE might be forgiven for thinking that this picture was made in a country that wears a perpetual chip on its shoulder, but, ironically, it was made in what has come to be known as "The City of Peace" Geneva, where international peacemakers meet in concave and tell the world how wrong it is to fight. Eight persons were killed and forty-five were injured in a recent street battle when Socialists and anti-Socialists clashed. Here soldiers are shown on guard in front of public buildings to prevent looting.

presented a solid front against a further raise, which is promised under the plans of the present administration." Mr. Hinder declared.

DR. J. D. HUNTER

Dr. J. D. Hunter, candidate for the City Council, urged a safe and sane policy of civic administration. He would not, he said, make any promises or pledges, but would endeavor to carry out a programme which would be of great interest to all citizens, with special attention to measures that would bring about a reduction of taxation. He emphasized the fact he was an independent candidate and did not represent any group or clique. If elected he would endeavor to give his earnest attention to civic affairs, he asserted.

WALTER INWARD

Walter Inward, candidate for the City Council, declared he could not support the present administration because he did not believe the interests of the city were being protected. "His Worship Mayor Leeming," said Mr. Inward, "made a statement that the dollars only cost a few hundred dollars. He forgets the moral. We did not want it." Mr. Inward advocated a return to the old system of electing candidates and an investigation of the "waterworks deal."

FRANK LEROY

Frank LeRoy, candidate for the City Council, said at the outset of his campaign that he was not one of those candidates who had no promises to make and who believed that everything was all right at the City Hall. "I claim that every one of us should be put to the mat and prove them false," he said. "They have become your masters and are no longer your servants. They have got the idea that the electors have nothing to say in your own business. I am going to cut out the publicity grant and I am going to see to it that this money goes to the various municipalities," Mr. LeRoy stated. He mentioned some of the things that needed attention in the city, especially in James Bay.

ANDREW MCGAVIN

Andrew McGavin, former member of the police commission and a teacher in the Royal City, taught many well-known persons, including Judge F. W. Howay. Twenty-six years ago he retired from the priesthood and went to England, the land of his birth, for a holiday. He suffered a chill a week ago and developed pneumonia.

C. H. McMILLAN

Cunningham H. McMillan, who is offering himself as a candidate for the City Council, said he had no per cent off the vacant property and put it onto the improved. "With regard to our civic employees, why not let them men be laid off and substituted by relief men?" he said. "It would be a wise measure to introduce some measure of relief that would give employment to men in some useful work. He mentioned the works he considered would be of value to the city, such as repairing roads and streets inside the province. He leaves no survivors.

ALD. R. T. WILLIAMS

Alderman R. T. Williams declared the attendance at ward meetings had indicated the growing interest of the public in local matters. Alderman Williams is seeking re-election to the City Council. He said he would, as he had done in the past two years, endeavor to lower tax rates. "We are up against a stone wall in this relief problem, and we are very saddled with this national burden. We have to take drastic measures to get just rights," Alderman Williams said. "I realize you are all suffering from this increased taxation, but it is a very difficult problem to go in there when there are nine others that you have got to contend with. We have done our best to protect your interests during the past two years."

TRUSTEE F. E. GEORGE

Trustee Percy E. George was the only candidate seeking re-election to the school board to speak at the meeting last night. He said the 1932 board had accomplished important reductions in expenditures. He asked the public to keep in mind that school expenditures continue on a fairly even basis irrespective of whether the conditions were good or bad. He paid tribute to the assistance that had been given by the school teachers. Trustee George explained the cadet system in the schools had been discontinued with what had been in past years. The cadet system is now a complete course in physical training, he stated. "I will endeavor to see that the expenditures for 1933 are no more than 1932 and if possible, less." The speaker concluded.

At the conclusion of the meeting Alderman Williams asked permission to answer a question. He said he desired to keep away from the Mayoralty contest, but would go so far as to say that Mr. Andros' platform was nine-tenths his own.

Burges J. Gadsden was chairman.

HOPES MISSION IS SUCCESSFUL

Island Lumber Men Desirous of fruitful results from Delegation's Visit to England

Ross Pendleton, manager of the Alberni-Paci Lumber Company, is hopeful that the delegation from the lumber industry of this province which went to London for the purpose of attempting to open up new markets for the local product, will succeed in its mission. The industry, he said, was awaiting the return of the delegation, which is expected to be back by Christmas.

Mr. Pendleton, Mrs. Pendleton and the latter's mother, Mrs. M. G. Arnold, spent Sunday in Victoria as guests at the Empress Hotel.

The results of the mission to London will have a most important bearing upon the lumber business in this province. If members of the delegation succeed in finding a substantial market for Douglas fir from this province in the English market, it will mean a real revival of the trade here.

UNEMPLOYMENT MUST BE FACED

E. B. Andros, Mayoralty Candidate, Says Jobless Not to Be Neglected

"It is all very well to say that the unemployment problem is one for the Federal Government, or the Provincial Government, but that is not going to feed the hungry citizens of this city any longer. Irritation of what the government intend to do, the unemployed must not be made to suffer while these negotiations are going on between official groups," declared E. B. Andros, candidate for the mayorality, in an election address to 147 ratepayers gathered at the auditorium of Quadra Street School last night.

Mr. Andros intimated that the unemployed problem was one that the City Council had to face and one that would involve greater expenditures, and for that reason every possible saving would have to be made. "It makes no difference what the responsibility lies. The council should have known at the commencement of the year that this situation would be with us again this winter. These men are not unemployed through any fault of their own, and we must have every care of them. We must make every provision for them and we can only do that by lowering our expenditures," Mr. Andros said.

PUBLICITY GRANT

In connection with proposed economies, Mr. Andros mentioned the publicity grant. He was greeted with applause when he stated that he would eliminate the grant entirely this year. He doubted, he said, that the council would be able to accomplish this year.

"We have had three or four men touring in the United States this year endeavoring to get people to come here. They have been spending your money in a foreign country when the rate of exchange has been steadily against the Canadian dollar. Was it justified?" Mr. Andros asked.

LEASE OF AIRPORT

Mr. Andros touched another responsive chord in the audience when he referred to the airport. He asked if it was the intention of the present administration to recommend that the airport property at Gordon Head be purchased at the expiration of the present two-year lease?

Someone in the audience asked who owned the property. Mr. Andros said he did not know. The questioner asked why the council did not spend the money in the city of Victoria instead of in the adjoining municipality.

Continuing his address, Mr. Andros mentioned a number of items of civic expenditure that he considered could be cut out without interfering with the conduct of efficiency. He referred to the allowances made for automobiles and telephones, public grants, duplication of officials and what he termed the "elimination of all deadwood."

LITTLE THINGS COUNT

"I have been criticized for not dealing with the larger expenditures. It is not the big amounts that get us into all this trouble. It is the little things that have been allowed to go unattended to for years." The report of the special survey made by the auditors shows plainly what could have been done by the Mayor and council if they had attended to it early in the year. We have got to change. We have got to show courage in dealing with these matters. What is the use of trying to spend more money than we are receiving? Anyone can balance a budget by borrowing money," Mr. Andros stated.

Towards the close of his address, Mr. Andros was asked a question concerning unemployment relief and what he intended to do in the best way to handle the subscription funds. The speaker said he believed that all charitable disbursements should be under one directing head.

REVIEWS PLATEFORM

Mr. Andros again reviewed the various items of his platform and reiterated his intention of going into office with the express purpose of reducing the tax rate by a drastic reduction in civic expenditures.

"There are dangerous times in which we are living today and drastic action must be taken to meet the situation. It is of no use to continue to borrow money at high interest rates. When Mayor Leeming urged you to support the $500,000 loan law, he left the impression with you that it would not be an increase in taxation. You have had your taxes increased 10 per cent. That was a direct insult to your intelligence. It was the same with the airport by law. When you voted

Trojans Will Play in Rose Bowl Fixture

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 28 (AP)—The Rose Tournament football committee meeting tomorrow night will officially pick the University of Southern California as the West's representative in the annual Rose Bowl classic, January 2, the question of the Trojans' opponent was not nearer a solution today.

Southern California authorities preferred not to disclose a possible selection from the East, Middle West or South until they had received the official invitation.

Michigan still stands as the favorite to get the game, if the "Big Ten" barrier against post-season games can be removed. Falling of the College of Pittsburgh probably will get the call. Alabama Poly's chance of playing the game are considered slight.

NANAIMO SENIORS DEFEAT CHEMAGINUS IN HOOP FIXTURE

NANAIMO, Nov. 28.—At the local "youth" Nanaimo senior cagers defeated Chemainus by a 38-27 score in a fast game. Raymond Watchorn was the star player for the locals, securing fifteen of his team's total points. Boudout was the sharpshooter of the visiting squad, getting thirteen.

Chemainus—McInnes (6), Devitt (1), Hamilton (3), Boudout (13), Ninnis (4), Murray, Wylie, Laidlaw (27).

Referee, Herb Green.

In the opener, the Mosquito "A" came through with a win over the Ladymen quintette, 14-13. Both teams played fast ball, although the game was a little rough.

"Dot" Dodge's Mosquito girls defeated Polly Kulai and her Lady-smith girls, 40-34.

NIGHTMARE IS COMEDY-FARCE

John Canuck in Mexico Furnishes Entertainment for Capacity Audience

A dream sometimes makes a more powerful impression than the actual experience of the same incident would have done. Bert Semple, connoisseur of comedy, Chapter 17 of the Eastern Star, social committee, makes use of this knowledge in "John Canuck in Mexico," the entertaining comedy which she wrote for presentation at the Shrine Auditorium last night in aid of the benevolent fund. The audience, however, after having been immediately preceded the presentation, the hall was crowded, and generous applause punctuated the performance throughout.

John Brown, a Canadian farmer of the old-fashioned type, who, like the dreamer, is the result of a dream from which he is awakened by a thunder-storm, has a sudden fancy to spend the winter in Mexico. When he puts the idea up to Mrs. Brown, she pooh-poohs it as fanciful and impracticable, although her objections really originate in the fact that John may take a fancy to some of the beautiful Spanish ladies of Mexico. Balked, John resumes his nap—and his dream.

The second act is concerned with the latter, which is a peculiarly comic-comic sketch of Mexican life, with toros, beautiful dancers, stiletto-wielding gringos serenading senoras, and ravishing black-browed señoritas among whom Farmer and Mrs. Brown seem comically out of place. The last act is a brief picture of John's awakening to the familiar and welcome scent of biscuits and his dream.

THE COMPANY

The characters were well cast; the dressing and scenery were very creative, worked out and, in the second act particularly, where the background was Mexican, had the essential color and brilliance; and the incidental music, furnished by a ladies quartette and various soloists, also had the right character.

A. W. Semple gave a convincingly homely and humorous presentation of Farmer John, who reached undreamed-of heights of gaiety as the Mexican Don in long cape, embroidered costume, and richly-beaded sombrero. Ruth Kressley Lathey shows fine comedy talents in the part of Mary Brown, who in the second act was called upon to make a sustained demonstration of her infatuation for Mexican Joe, even to the point of jealousy threatening him with a dagger if he dared carry out his desire to return to Santa Fe. Espinola (Clarence Jeeves), Mrs. Brown's dancing was one of the fine comedy touches of the whole performance, to which her solo about her "Spanish Onion" ranked only second.

Other prominent parts were carried by John Bell as the leader of "Yum," Nanaimo senior cagers, and Mexican Joe, who sang "Long Years Ago" and "Lady, My Saint, I Adore You"; Olive Batchelor as the Spanish lady, Senorita Gonzales, who spent much of her time on the balcony being serenaded; Clarence Jeeves in the part of the Lieutenant General, Espinola, another well-rehearsed singer, and dancer, and Arthur Jackman as El Toreador, leader of some of the best chorals in the play.

OTHER PARTS

Among the numerous dances given place in the comedy was a beautiful Tango, gracefully performed by Evelyn Keddy and Daniel Platier, who were called back for a repeat. The girls, too, were good, especially the Spanish dance and as the Death leader in the Dagger procession. Dilys Clark, Vince Johnson, (38), Chemainus—McInnes (6), Devitt (1), Hamilton (3), Boudout (13), Ninnis (4), Murray, Wylie, Laidlaw (27).

Your Health and Your Weight

THE STARCHES ARE THE FAT MAKERS

BY JAS. W. BARTON, M.D.

Although the ideal method of reducing weight is by increasing the exercise and decreasing the amount of food eaten, there are cases where exercise cannot or will not be taken and the weight must be reduced entirely by cutting down on the food. Even in cases where the food is good, it is not helping to burn or use up food as it should, cutting down on the food intake also helps to reduce weight.

The loss in weight when the patients were taking the low diet (1,000 calories) appears to be due to the removal of fat and water from the body.

A most interesting result was noticed when the thyroid extract was used: less fat and more water was lost to secure the weight reduction, whereas with the low diet less water and more fat was lost.

The rate at which the body processes used or burned up food was about the same in the entire series of cases. During the low diet the loss of weight was given the rate of over-weight, when the thyroid extract was given.

We thus learn from the above experiment with a series of all kinds of over-weight, that reducing the food intake will reduce weight in all cases.

We learn also that many who are over-weight have found out for themselves that cutting down on carbohydrates or starches—potatoes, bread, sugar and pastry—is more effective than any other single method in reducing weight.

It is possible to cut down for a few days and perhaps lose a little or no weight, because Nature seems to want a certain amount of water in the tissues, and this water keeps up the weight. However, in another week or two, the weight goes off at a slow rate, and then begins picking up for the slow rate of loss of fat.

At other times the weight goes off very rapidly when the food is reduced, and then goes more slowly a week or two later.

In the thirty-five cases above mentioned the rate of loss was greatest at first, and then the rate became slower even on the same diet.

It was found that 1,000 calories, that is, about one-half the usual amount of food, was about the ideal amount to give in practically all cases. The usual foods—carbohydrates (meat), carbohydrates (vegetables and bread), fats (butter, cream, and fat meats)—were given in different proportions to see which food was really most responsible for putting on weight.

While it was hardly expected that meat would put on weight rapidly, when it did, it did so quickly; even in lean meat, it might be expected that fat meat, butter and cream would put on weight more rapidly than any other food. Such was not the case, as it was found that in giving the 1,000 calories if the meat was cut down, the other two kinds of food—proteins and fats—the loss of weight was most rapid.

In the cases due to thyroid gland disturbance it took a very large dose of thyroid extract to produce a loss of weight equal to that caused by cutting the food down to 1,000 calories.

Thus the reduction in food is of great help even in these cases. Thyroid extract in ordinary over-weight cases is dangerous.

The loss in weight when the patients were taking the low diet (1,000 calories) appears to be due to the removal of fat and water from the body.

A most interesting result was noticed when the thyroid extract was used: less fat and more water was lost to secure the weight reduction, whereas with the low diet less water and more fat was lost.

The rate at which the body processes used or burned up food was about the same in the entire series of cases. During the low diet the loss of weight was given the rate of over-weight, when the thyroid extract was given.

We thus learn from the above experiment with a series of all kinds of over-weight, that reducing the food intake will reduce weight in all cases.

We learn also that many who are over-weight have found out for themselves that cutting down on carbohydrates or starches—potatoes, bread, sugar and pastry—is more effective than any other single method in reducing weight.

It is possible to cut down for a few days and perhaps lose a little or no weight, because Nature seems to want a certain amount of water in the tissues, and this water keeps up the weight. However, in another week or two, the weight goes off at a slow rate, and then begins picking up for the slow rate of loss of fat.

At other times the weight goes off very rapidly when the food is reduced, and then goes more slowly a week or two later.

In the thirty-five cases above mentioned the rate of loss was greatest at first, and then the rate became slower even on the same diet.

Miss Scowcroft's Pupils Hold First Elocution Recital

At "The Croft Studio" Queens Avenue, the pupils of Miss Neille Scowcroft on Saturday night held their first recital and the formal opening of their little theatre, to which Miss Scowcroft welcomed the many friends who greatly enjoyed the varied programme.

Jack Crozier-Smith opened the programme with a solo recitation, "Sing Again," followed by "Sea Memories"; Palcy Pendray recited "The Duck"; by Walter de la Mare, and "November Sunshine, Marigolds" by Frances Ebo-Carey; Marjorie McConnell gave "Eleanor Eclectone Mackay's "My Valentine Regained" and Longfellow's "Twilight"; Eleanor Brooke, "Christians in France" and "Reality," by Isabel Eclectone; "I Sing Against the Window" (Rowley) and "The General Store"; Julie Kent-Jones "The Song My Paddle Sings" (E. Pauline Johnson) and "About Ben Adam"; Gertrude Seal recited "A Mood," by Marion Isabel Angus.

The second part of the programme was arranged through the kindness of Mr. J. Adams. Mr. Hayes of Nanaimo played accordion selections; Mr. Colling, of Ladysmith, sang several numbers; Mr. Williams, of Nanaimo, and Mr. J. Campbell, of Campbell River, were accompanists. Mrs. Campbell was the accompanist of Ruth Johnson and Raymond Lang.

Kipling's "Dream of the Future" was chanted by Mr. Hayes, followed by Julia Jones. The poems presented, both for their harmonious selection and the evident understanding of the students who recited them, were all enthusiastically received, and the programme closed with a short play, "Made Up the Reasons," appearing for the first time, showed remarkable talent, which was also displayed by the other members of the cast, Philip McMaster, Mr. J. Wilson, Miss Phyllis Knapp and Mr. Woolard.

Following the recital, refreshments were served, with Miss Scowcroft assisted by her sister.

Local Councils Doing Good Work

VANCOUVER, Nov. 28 (CP).—The problem of unemployment was receiving the greatest share of attention by Local Councils of Women throughout the country yesterday. Winifred Boyd, of Montreal, president of the National Council of Women, explained in an address here this afternoon to the Vancouver council.

Threefold was the basic foundation of council work, practical relief, educational and ideal. Miss Boyd said, "Of the first she chose the help given to unemployed. Of educational work she approved the effort made by several councils to support women on school boards and for civic honors. She further hoped to keep such effort free from politics, to work for women who would do the best in office especially in favor of help for women and children."

Miss Kydd outlined the work being done by Local councils to aid the unemployed during the winter. Another activity was the fostering of handicrafts. Smaller councils, she said, had started archives, in which were preserved bits of personal history.

I.O.D.E. Activities

M. R. Robertson Chapter At a meeting of the Margaret Rock Robertson Chapter yesterday the annual general meeting was passed to Miss Terry. Child welfare and educational reports were read and calendars were ordered to be sent to the adopted schools and other friends. Members wishing to attend the dinner to be given for Miss Kydd on Friday evening were invited to do so.

STUART ERWIN IN CAPITOL COMEDY

Alison Skipworth and Susan Fleming Support Star in "He Learned About Women"

"He Learned About Women," the new comedy featuring Stuart Erwin, Alison Skipworth and Susan Fleming, which opened yesterday at the Capitol. There will continue its engagement until tomorrow.

The film tells a farcical story of a foolish young man who is frankly bewildered when he falls heir to $30,000,000. On the strength of his inheritance, he starts out to find out about life, and on his first day's adventuring, picks up two excellent teachers—an ex-actress and a young graphic artist.

Stuart Erwin has the role of the young millionaire; Susan Fleming is the stenographer, and Alison Skipworth is Madame Vivienne Poldor, the actress. Also on the "Arry—Fancy her mother giving her such a 'andsome present as a 'orse and trap!"

"Arry—Garn! It was a clothes horse and a mouse trap. That's their bloomin' pride!"

PLAYHOUSE Eduardo Duran's famous Latin America orchestra plays the music in the dance hall romance, "Dancers in the Dark." Jean Harlow and Clark Gable star.

EMPIRE as laughter - maker, Ralph Lynn is at his very best in "Mischief," a first rate British and Dominion picture, now at the Empire Theatre. Ben Travers as usual provides the vocal and the Alwyn stage does the rest, with the aid of Winifred Shottter and Jack Raymond, who has admirably directed the intensely amusing story. "Mischief" is also notable for its charming Kentish scenery, excellent photography and recording.

COLUMBIA A football "game of the century" between rival penitentiaries provides the climax of "Hold 'Em Jail," a second feature picture by Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey starring comedy. Others in the cast are Edna May Oliver, Rosco Ates, Edgar Kennedy and Betty Grable. "Hold 'Em Jail" is now at the Co-humble Theatre.

A cooter and his best girl were discussing the recent marriage of two of their acquaintances.

"Arry—Did you read the list of presents Ana Smith had for her weddin'?"

"Yes—I did. The bides for such as them 'avin' the weddin' put in the paper! They might be aristocrats!"

TO HOLD SEED DISPLAY HERE

Arrangements Are Made for Annual Show in Victoria Next January

Arrangements have been made for the granting of special rates to travelers attending the Winter Seed and Potato Show, to be held here. Details have now been completed jointly by the Department of Agriculture and the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, to hold the 1933 British Columbia Winter Potato Fair and bulb display at the Crystal Garden, Victoria, from January 18 to 21.

Special entertainment features are being arranged in order to secure a record attendance, and as an added incentive, the Standard Passengers' Association has been prevailed upon to authorize the sale of round-trip tickets on both railroads and steamers at the rate of single fare and a quarter.

Much interest in the fair has already been displayed, and is anticipated by the officials in charge that approximately 10,000 visitors will be on display from various parts of the province, including quite a large number from the Peace River district. The last provincial fair of this nature to be held in the Capital City was in 1926, and was pronounced an outstanding success.

TRADE ENVOY IS VISITOR TO CITY

Ernest Guy, French Commissioner, Seeking Information of Pacific Coast on Tour

Ernest Guy, of San Francisco, French trade commissioner for the Western states of the American Union, paid a visit to Victoria over the week-end for the purpose of seeking information relative to the Pacific Coast in Canada. Leaving here, he went to Up-Island points and will cross to Vancouver before returning South.

In referring to the war debts, Mr. Guy, while not prepared to speak for his country, said that his own view was that neither Great Britain nor France had any intention of defaulting in their payments.

He felt, however, that the whole question would have to be adjusted on a more equitable basis. To follow a policy of requiring the transfer of immense quantities of gold from one country to another with who is scheduled to give an attractive programme for the day after tomorrow, on "Living Music Day and Shoppers' Buying Festival." Mr. Zala is well known throughout the city as the author of his services in co-operation with other members of the Musicians' Union, will add much to the sale occasion.

the result that trade was hampered was not in the interests of any of the countries. The goods had been sold to the two European nations during the war at a profit of from 50 to 60 per cent, Mr. Guy asserted.

Veteran Miner Succumbs Here

Robert Guest Schofield, veteran miner and prospector, passed away on Sunday at the Jubilee Hospital, aged seventy-three years. Born in England, Mr. Schofield came to British Columbia in 1891, a prospector and had mined all over the province. He participated in the gold rush of 1897 and spent many years in the Yukon.

He had resided recently at 1772 Albert Street, and left no relatives in Canada, but two nephews and a niece in England. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Little Tommy came from Sunday school one day in a very thoughtful mood.

"Mother," he said, "don't you think I've been a good boy since I've been to Sunday school?"

"Why, yes, certainly!" replied the mother.

"Don't you think you can trust me now, mother?"

"Of course I do! But why do you ask?"

A wonderful entertainment is being arranged—Talkies, Dancing, Singing and a "Potted Pantomime" Version of "The Babes in the Wood" by pupils of Miss Violet Fawkes. Two performances—9 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. Tickets now on sale at the "Bay's" Toy Circus, Third Floor. Children, 10c; adults, 20c.

TWO CIVIC OFFICES TO BE MERGED

The first step toward the consolidation of the waterworks department with the treasury was taken by the City Council at its meeting last night, on the recommendation of the finance committee.

T. M. Schilling, aged sixty years who has been in the city employ since 1914, will be superannuated on December 31. Mr. Schilling is an employee of the treasury department.

Jack Smith, cashier in the waterworks department, will be moved, after that date, to the treasury department, where he will receive payments for water bills. Other changes are expected to be made before the end of the year.

The last provincial fair of this nature to be held in the Capital City was in 1926, and was pronounced an outstanding success.

Arrangements have been made for the granting of special rates to travelers attending the Winter Seed and Potato Show, to be held here. Details have now been completed jointly by the Department of Agriculture and the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, to hold the 1933 British Columbia Winter Potato Fair and bulb display at the Crystal Garden, Victoria, from January 18 to 21.

Special entertainment features are being arranged in order to secure a record attendance, and as an added incentive, the Standard Passengers' Association has been prevailed upon to authorize the sale of round-trip tickets on both railroads and steamers at the rate of single fare and a quarter.

Much interest in the fair has already been displayed, and is anticipated by the officials in charge that approximately 10,000 visitors will be on display from various parts of the province, including quite a large number from the Peace River district. TO ALL MERCHANTS MANUFACTURERS AND BANKERS . . .

This is the way to BETTER BUSINESS

"Before there is any great upturn in volume of sales for manufacturers of trade-marked merchandise, there must inevitably be a great upturn in advertising volume.

"Because, merchandising embraces every marketing process involved in getting a commodity from the factory to the consumer. Not merely from the factory to the salesman. Not from the salesman to the wholesaler. Nor from the wholesaler to the retailer. But all the way from the factory to the consumer. Including all the in-between stopping-places.

"Merchandising is complete trade. Goods fully sold. Commodities taken to their cash-yielding terminal. When this last step rounds out the procedure...when the ultimate user's cash flows back through the channels of trade...and the way is opened for repeat sales...then we have Business."★

HERE WE HAVE THE ECONOMIC BASIS OF ADVERTISING

For if we agree that merchandising requires this completion of selling, so that goods go into use and are used up, then we establish the place of advertising as a business essential. Advertising holds its position because it simplifies dealing with the public—as to effort, time and cost. It is an intrinsic part of selling at that last step which actually moves the goods into consumers' hands.

Advertising in the Daily Newspapers—if it is geared by intelligent and trained men to do its necessary share in the job of selling—is an unchanging dominant power—the most rapid, direct, simple and economic contact with Canadian consumers.

Planes of Royal Air Force Do Ambulance Duties in Near East

Machines Are Equipped With Conveniences for Stretcher and "Sitting" Cases and Make Special Flights as Necessity Occurs

In Iraq and Palestine, where hospitals and medical establishments even of the most elementary kind have been signed and adopted by the service for the transport of casualties. The practice is to employ routine types of airplanes, either airships or the Royal Air Force do much useful work in the carriage of sick and wounded men. All these aircraft, however, and these big craft are incomparably better for the work, which are allocated to service in Iraq are modified so that they may be converted to carry two stretchers and four "sitting" cases.

Thus the airplane saves much time, and lifts the patient the head of a long and laborious journey. Frequently the speed of air transport and the lessening of discomfort have contributed materially to save lives, particularly those of the Royal Air Force. Other vehicles are incomparably better for the work, which are allocated to service in Iraq are modified so that they may be converted to carry two stretchers and four "sitting" cases.

The latest available figures show that in 1931 no fewer than 100 British aircraft were shifted by air in Iraq and twenty-one within the borders of Palestine. Altogether Royal Air Force planes engaged on this beneficial work flew approximately 18,000 miles in aerial journeys, the greater portion of which were ordinary routine flights. Special flights were undertaken whenever the site of the accident or nature of the disease or injury were factors of major importance.

REGULAR PLANES

From 1920 to 1924 two special air ambulance planes were engaged in Iraq, but from the middle of the latter year until the present time

SANTA ROSA NOW ON WAY

First of Grace Line Ships Leaves New York for Victoria

Slipping her moorings at Manhattan Pier No. 95, at 12 o'clock noon Saturday, the Grace Line Santa Rosa started on her maiden voyage to Victoria and Seattle via Panama, Central America, Mexico, San Francisco, some 300 passengers, comprising business and professional leaders, Government and State officials and social leaders from all parts of the United States. The Santa Rosa has accommodation for 224 first class passengers. Among the 100 passengers are sixty-two prominent Californians and ten Seattleites.

The Santa Rosa is the first of the four sister ships to be placed in operation. The others now nearing completion are the Santa Paula, scheduled to sail January 7; the Santa Lucia, which will be launched on January 19; and the Santa Elena, which will be launched tomorrow at 10 a.m. from the ways of the Federal Shipbuilding and Drydock Company, Kearny, N.J., with Miss Elsie Grace, daughter of William Russell Grace, a director of W. R. Grace & Company, a sponsor of the vessel. The cost of the liner is $5,000,000.

Of twenty-five knots, with a sea speed of 17,500 tons, with a beam of 508 feet and seventy-six-foot beam, of turbine-electric propulsion, these four liners, all to engage in the intercoastal route between passenger and freight services, will be open to the public schedule which will include calls at Havana, Cristobal, Balboa, Puntarenas, La Libertad, San Jose de Guatimala, Mazatlan, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Victoria and Seattle.

OUTSIDE STATEROOMS

With accommodations for 222 first class passengers and seventy steerage, the liners are installed with all outside staterooms and private baths, the only vessels flying the United States flag so built. The outdoor swimming pool is the largest on any American liner. A veranda cafe, a sliding dome on the main dining-room and other facilities of the latest in passenger liner construction plan these luxurious carriers boast of any similar type ship in the United States Merchant Marine.

These ships are equipped with the latest in cargo gear handling and refrigerated space for 900 tons and accommodations for 1,300 tons of semi-perishable cargo. Spacious areas for automobiles is another feature.

The Santa Rosa is due here on her first call, December 18 in the morning.

NATIONAL STEAMSHIPS ABANDONING PACIFIC ST. LAWRENCE SERVICE

MONTRAL, Nov. 28 (CP)—The Canadian Western Line called Sunday for Vancouver on a trip that will end the thirteen-year-old service between St. Lawrence ports and the Pacific Coast, operated by the Canadian Government Merchant Marine, now the Canadian National Steamships.

The National decided to abandon the service following the establishment of a similar service by the Canadian Transport Company, Ltd., through its subsidiary, Vancouver-St. Lawrence Line, which has secured the handling of all lumber shipments out of British Columbia from the St. Lawrence Lumber Conference.

Freighter Put Back To Port When Crack Developed in Pipe

VANCOUVER, Nov. 28 (CP)—The Ayahs Maru, Japanese steamship company, sailed at midnight Saturday for Japan, and three hours later returned to the harbor to undergo repairs to her main steam pipe.

Empire Shipping Company, agent for the company, reports that a crack developed in the pipe and marine experts judged it safe to put back to port in view of the fact that the ship will probably require her best efficiency to meet the boisterous weather of a winter North Pacific crossing.

The vessel will be delayed here until December 13. She is anchored in the stream.

WOMAN PASSENGER LOST FROM LINER

HALIFAX, Nov. 28 (CP)—A woman passenger was lost overboard from the liner Lady Drake on November 18, according to a message received here today.

The report was confirmed later by Canadian National Steamships officials, but the woman's name was not learned. It is understood she belonged to Western Canada.

Montreal Nov. 28 (CP)—The woman lost at sea from the steamship Lady Drake was Mrs. Wooley, according to officials of Canadian National Steamships. Her home address in Canada was not known here.

SOCER TEAM CHOSEN FOR MAINLAND FIXTURE

Blue Ribbons and Centennials Still Remain Undefeated

Senior "A" Leaders and "C" Division Pacesetters Only Unbeaten Quintettes in City Basketball League to Date—Standings Released

Blue Ribbons, pacesetters in the senior men's division, and Centennials, senior "C" leaders, are the only two undefeated quintettes in the Victoria and District Basketball League according to the official standings released yesterday by President Jack Taylor. The schedule for the first half is well advanced, and the teams will start down the home stretch in most of the divisions this week, and a merry race to the wire is promised.

With an evenly-balanced squad, and led by their brilliant captain, Chuck Chapman, Ribbons are headed in the right direction for the first-half laurels with four straight victories and no defeats. C.P.S. and 5th Regiment are tied for second berth with one decision and three sets of ties. Slingers are second in the senior "A" division, but their games are only exhibitions, as they have already been declared intermediate "A" champions, and will represent the city in the playoffs. The same condition exists in the women's senior "B" division, as the girls are playing in the league but their games are exhibitions and are not counted in the standings. Harmony will play Victoria's colors in the women's intermediate "A" playoffs.

COARSMEN IN FRONT
J.B.A.A. are leading in the men's senior "B" division with five victories and two defeats, while Green Mill, last year's winners, are holding down second place, two points behind the coarsmen. Slingers West Roasters are third, two games back of the leaders, but have played less fixtures. Rayshines are in first place in the women's "B" section with five decisions and one reverse.

PEDEN AND AUDY CLOSE ON LEADERS

Canadian Team in Third Place in Six-Day Bike Race at New York

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 (CP)— Successfully blocking every attempt to oust them from the lead in the six-day bike race at Madison Square Garden, "Torchy" Peden and Jules Audy, the Canadian entry, kept in front of the pack all day long but at 10 o'clock tonight the French red devils, Letourneau and Debats, wrested the front position from them with a great burst of speed.

Peden and Audy at midnight thought were only one lap behind the leading teams of Letourneau and Debats and Hill and Grimm, and a serious threat every second.

The wildest jamming featured the second evening of the grind and up till 12 o'clock eighty-six laps had been stolen. Just before 10 o'clock Peden, riding his new mapping and Audy, at a daring pace, well backed up by the platinum blonde-haired Audy, gained several circuits when Letourneau and Hill set after them. After several circuits of the maddest pedalling the red devils successfully overhauled the Canadians.

AMES MAKES 96

Ames' 90 in three hours was a bright inning and he combined with Voce to make a record eight wicket stand in the New South Wales-England series of 100. Voce scored 46. The slow leg breaking deliveries of Hirst were most effective for New South Wales. Don Bradman, England's prime batsman, was unable to bat due to a chill, but hoped to play tomorrow.

THE GAME

The game was played before 13,000 spectators. The weather was very warm, but the pitch was good.

TOD MORGAN TO WORK OUT AT STADIUM

Albie Davies' Opponent to Train Tonight—Other Boys to Work Also

Tod Morgan, former world's junior lightweight champion, will arrive in the city on this afternoon's boat from Seattle and will appear at the Pacific Stadium this evening when he will dole out the gloves with several local boxers in order that the fans may have a chance to give him the once over.

Albie and Jumbo Davies and other boxers, who are appearing on the programme Thursday evening, will also work out. The doors will be open at 7:30 and workouts will start at 8 o'clock.

A MINIMAL CHARGE will be made to witness the workouts and the money collected will be donated to the V.I.A.A. in order to help finance the free boxing classes which are being held three evenings weekly.

HOLLAND DUE TOMORROW

Frankie Holland, who will meet Jumbo Davies in the six-round semi-final, will arrive tomorrow and will appear with the rest of the principals in the stadium following evening.

THE COMPLETE CARD follows:

Four rounds, 140 pounds, Johnny Maitland vs. Bob Miller.

Four rounds, 125 pounds, Frankie Nee vs. Wing Hay.

British Empire Heavyweight Champ Stops Belgian in 34 Seconds

FRANKIE GAINES, England, Nov. 28 (CP)— Larry Gains, Toronto negro, who is heavyweight boxing champion of the British Empire, tonight knocked out the Belgian, Pierre Morat, in the first round of a scheduled fifteen-round bout here. The fight lasted 34 seconds.

The Belgian started off confidently, but was soon stopped when Gains rushed him. They sparred for a moment. Then Gains led with his left to the jaw and crossed with a hard right which caught Morat on the point of the chin.

The crowd of 5,000 persons gasped as the Belgian straightened and crashed forward on his face to be counted out. It was two minutes before he regained consciousness.

CHINESE WIN LOOP HONORS

Capture First-Half Title in Intermediate Division of Sunday School League

Tossing in baskets at a dizzy pace, Chinese Students captured first half honors in the intermediate boys' division of the Sunday School Basketball League last night at the Centennial gymnasium by scoring a 61-16 victory over Emmanuel Baptist.

The easy decision gave the Chinese the laurels without a defeat against them.

From the first sound of the whistle the game was never in doubt. Passing and shooting with accuracy, the students took a 21-6 lead during the initial half. The Chinese, having the ball, continued to chalk up forty more points, while Baptists only caged ten. The Lee brothers, W. and Wal, headed the scorers.

SPRINGFIELD led, 5-1, at the end of the second period, but in the third the Englishmen uncorked a burst of speed that got them four goals within a few minutes. It looked for a short time like anybody's game, but the Canadians returned to a vigorous attack in the dying moments of the game, and that netted them three more tallies.

THE CANADIANS will move to London Wednesday, when they will meet a team representing the South of England.

Former Dethrones Drennan Hincks in Three-Set Tussle

Loses First Set but Stages Great Comeback to Take
Next Two to Capture Garrison Club Badminton Crown—Miss Oates Downs, Doreen Swayne in Straight Sets—Play Close

Champions of the Garrison Badminton Club for the coming year were crowned, last night, at the Armories, when the finals in all sets were played before the largest crowd in the history of the annual tournament. Noel Radford, one of Canada's leading shuttlecock players, took the men's singles championship after a sensational struggle with Drennan Hincks, the defending champion.

The women's singles, featuring Miss Oates and Doreen Swayne in straight sets, 11-2, 11-2.

Other champions crowned follow:

Men's Doubles

Hincks and Hocking defeated Hugo Rayment and Don Campbell, 15-8, 18-13.

COOL WINNER OVER MASSEY

Philadelphia Boys Put Up
Fine Exhibition—Jack Kilbourne Decided

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 28 (AP)—A flashy exhibition of boxing and the ability to keep out of range gave Eddie Cool, Philadelphia lightweight, a ten-round decision tonight over Lew Massey, also of this city, in the feature bout of a boxing show.

Cool, a lithesome 133-pounder, worked a peppery left jab, crossed with a chopping right to keep his 135-pound opponent at a distance and succeeded in coasting to a decision. Massey swam wildly, connected to open noses but proved unable to cope with Cool's boxing and ring generalship.

Billy Ketchell, Millville, N.J., slugger, rallied to take a ten-round decision from Jack Kilbourne, of Australia, in the semi-final.

Kilbourne outpunched his shorter opponent in the first four rounds, but Ketchell, rushing continuously, carried the fight to the Australian the remainder of the bout. Each weighed 161.

The men's doubles final produced some of the finest badminton seen here since the tour of the English team a couple of years ago. Hincks swept through the first set to win 13-12, but two errors in a row gave Radford his chance, and he rallied to win out at 18-13, after some sensational volleys. The third and final set was closely fought throughout, with the new champion winning 15-11.

Miss Oates did not have much trouble in winning the women's crown from Miss Doreen Swayne. The champion played a strong game throughout while Miss Swayne failed to show her usual sound game.

Hincks and Hocking teamed well to capture the men's doubles from the mixed event, and after taking a hard-fought first set, swept through the second easily.

Mrs. Tremaine, wife of the president of the club, presented the prizes to the winners following the tournament.

Security Prices Hold Steady at New York Mart

NEW YORK. Nov. 28 (AP) — Stocks maintained their composure in the face of a record low for the pound sterling today.

With the new Cabinet working on new debt negotiations, Wall Street preferred to suspend its judgment on the eventual outcome of the debt negotiations. Sterling was reported as being under considerable French pressure; dealings here were light. Bearishness over the severe break which carried the pound under its 1920 low of $3.18, were most evident in foreign currencies whose fortunes were linked to sterling, and in the silver market. Gold spot metal made a new minimum.

Another reflection of the unsettled state of foreign money was found in gold mining shares on the Stock Exchange. Homestead reached new record lows, while Alaska, Juneau and McIntyre were also active, although the last named was off a little on the day.

U.S. Steel, General Electric, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, Consolidated Gas and a few others turned moderate gains, mostly of a fractional nature. Transactions totaled $40,083 shares, one of the smallest turnovers in months.

The bond market was irregular and dull, with most traders and investors showing no inclination to await further developments in the foreign debt situation.

While United States Government issues maintained a steady firm position, secondary loans and some of the foreign issues were a trifle uneasy.

Great Northern 4 1/2's dropped 4 points at one time, and losses ranged from fractions to point or more were recorded by companies of Illinois Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Canadian Pacific, Chicago & Northwestern, Erie, Missouri Pacific, New York Central and Southern. Texaco bonds improved, as did some of Santa Fe, Chesapeake & Ohio and Allegheny Corp. Bonds of Armour & Co. firmed along with those of Consolidated Gas, Duquesne Light, Lautara Nitrate and Goodrich. Issues of International Telephone and American and Foreign Power were slightly higher.

British 5 1/2's lost a point, but rallied moderately later. Mild improvement was shown by issues of Argentina, Brazil, Germany and Japan.

FALSE ECONOMY

FALSE ECONOMY

Why do so many men of high standing in professional, business and financial callings appoint a trust company to act as Executor of their estates? Because they know that it is false economy to try to save executor's fees by appointing a friend or a member of the family to this responsible position.

They know that in their own businesses they would never save money by replacing executors.

We invite you to consult with our officers.

WILL DEDICATE ALTAR SCREEN

Bishop of Columbia to Officiate at St. Paul's Church Ceremony Sunday

A newly-installed oak screen will be dedicated to the memory of the late Lieut.-Col. John A. Hall at the morning service at 10:30 o'clock on Sunday, December 4, at St. Paul's Garrison Church, Esquimalt. The service will be performed by Rt. Rev. C. D. Schofield, Bishop of Columbia.

The screen has been erected in recognition of the deep interest that was taken for many years by Lieut.-Col. Hall in the administration and support of this parish, as well as in the work of the diocesan synod, of whose executive council he was an active member.

This new part of the chancel furniture replaced one made of fir and pine, which had stood for many years. It is said to have borne a curious likeness to some churches in Devonshire, England. Since its installation, many years ago, the newer pieces of church fittings have been made of oak, most especially the memorial pulpit, which W. E. Barclay erected two years ago in memory of his father, Rev. Canon Barclay, of the diocese of Salisbury, and in which Lieut.-Col. Hall was educated. It is expected that those who had been associated with Lieut.-Col. Hall in his varied activities will take the opportunity of attending the dedication service.

SCOUTS CONCLUDE CONFERENCE HERE

Ceremonial Church Parade Marks End of Successful Three-Day Gathering in Victoria

Concluding a most successful three-day conference of Boy Scout patrol leaders of the Pacific Northwest, those who attended the parade, accompanied by Scouts and Wolf Cubs of Victoria, took part in a church parade yesterday. Nearly 1,000 Scouts, Cubs and officials participated, presenting a colorful spectacle as they marched through the city led by the Seattle Boy Scout Drum and Bugle Corps.

After leaving the Scout headquarters, the party divided into two sections, one proceeding to Christ Church Cathedral and the other to St. Andrew's Cathedral.

DEAN CONDUCTS SERVICE
Very Rev. G. S. Spaulding, Dean of Christ Church, conducted the service at Christ Church, which was opened with the singing of the hymn, "Sons of Christ," followed by special prayers for the Scouts offered by the dean. The text of the sermon was taken from the Bible passage where Christ met Matthew at the receipt of customs and said, "Follow Me."

Every Boy Scout must ask himself where he was going, what he was going to do and what he was aiming at, the dean said. One of the faults of modern man, he commented, was that he was always leaving the place where he was and going somewhere else for no apparent reason.

TENDER CONGRATULATIONS!

Following the service, the Scouts marched back to headquarters for a brief meeting, where Mr. Sway, president of the visiting commissioners, extended congratulations to Struan Robertson, troop leader of St. Matthias Troop, for his excellent work in conducting the conference, and to Major J. Wise, district commissioner, and W. George Lythgoe, district Scoutmaster for their productive efforts in organizing their conference efforts in the province.

Three cheers were given to Scout Robertson.

PROVINCE SCENES SHOWN ON SCREEN

D. Flintoff Presents Moving Pictures at Victoria and District Cornish Society Meeting

A special programme was presented to the Victoria and District Cornish Society Saturday night. Most of the exhibits were moving pictures depicting interesting scenes in the province, which were thrown on the screen by D. Flintoff, who has given a great deal of attention to this line of enterprise. The views shown included a trip to Alaska; lumbering scenes in British Columbia; a salmon run; Laurel and Hardy; leaping rainbow; canning in B.C.; and the Spring cleaning of an Empress steamer, which was taken by Mr. Flintoff while the Empress liner was being refitted here.

In addition to the pictures shown, Mr. Flintoff gave a humorous monologue. Vocal solo numbers were rendered by Miss Iris Smith and W. J. Cobbett, and a concertina selection by A. Jasper. The accompanists were Mrs. Hick and Miss Thelma Williams. E. J. Stephens, president of the organization, presided.

"BY JINGO" AND JINGOISM

We have an inquiry as to the origin of the expression "By Jingó" and as to any possible relationship with the term "Jingolism" for war spirit in the agitator sense.

In accordance with its origin, "By Jingó" is really an appeal to the spirit of the Basque people. The Basques participated, presenting a colorful spectacle as they marched through the city led by the Seattle Boy Scout Drum and Bugle Corps.

After leaving the Scout headquarters, the party divided into two sections, one proceeding to Christ Church Cathedral and the other to St. Andrew's Cathedral.

CHAPTER XXIX
Judy signaled a page boy who stood near by.

"How do I reach Mr. Flavin?" she asked him.

"Call him on the house phone right away. I'll get him for you."

He rang, waited, rang again.

"Here you are," Miss Allison.

"Mr. Flavin?"

"Yes."

"This is Judy Allison."

"Oh, Miss Allison! Say, I've been wanting to see you."

"I've got a nice piece of work you and Day put over on Jenkins the other day."

"Smart as could be. That's real else in the world. She knew that, for sure."

At 7:10 Elton Day telephoned.

"Tell him I'm not in," Judy asked Elton.

"Tell him I won't be back at all this evening."

He was told.

At 8:30 he appeared at the house, and Mrs. Malone, fluttering, excited, reported, "He's a very nice young man. And he's got a big box of flowers. Roses, I think."

"Tell him I'm not in—"

"I did. And he said he'll wait."

"Then—"

You Must Have Had Some Reason for Coming."

salesmanship, all right. And you'll earn the money, too. Jenkins is tickled to death with the man and everybody. Your wife is a knockout. Why, if you weren't under exclusive contract now I could put you on another programme today."

"Mr. Flavin, I'm calling about Dick Mason."

"Oh!" There was a faint change in his voice, a lessening of enthusiasm. But Judy went on.

"Dick Mason—he's gone, you know."

"Yes. I heard about it."

"Well, Mr. Jenkins isn't satisfied with the new announcer. He's trying to get Dick Mason back on the programme now, and he says he'll take anybody else."

"No. That wouldn't do any good."

"Course it wouldn't. Just tell him to go his way. You told him to go today. He might know when he's not wanted."

"He doesn't care if he's wanted or not. I think he honestly believes nobody can resist him if he keeps on talking."

"Maybe he's right," Elsie said.

"Not about me."

"All right, I'll see him. Tell him I'll be down in just a minute, will you, Elsie?"

"Sure."

Judy dabbed a little powder on her nose. No use putting on much. No use taking much trouble. She didn't care if Elton Day noticed she didn't look dressed up. Why dress up for him? Why bother at all?

Still asking herself that, she entered the living-room. He jumped up quickly. "Judy!"

"Just. I don't know if you like flowers or not. Silly, taking flowers to a girl. Like the hero in a book. Well, I'll be a hero, then. Just once. Here's flowers."

"Thank you."

"But you ought to open the box and start at the flowers and be overcome. That's the way they do it in the movies."

"This isn't a movie."

"Right you are. This is life. Life, my friends, is a problem. Life is a thing I can get along without seeing anything of. Life is a thing that grows darker and darker. Life is poem by Dorothy Parker. Life is—"

Judy called Elton. "Elsie, I've always wanted to give some flowers to old Mrs. Williams in the third floor flat. How about these?"

Elsie accepted the box dubiously. "Maybe," she said. "I wouldn't know. She's kind of particular. But, well, I'll ask if she wants 'em, and if she doesn't—"

She made a gesture intended to picture the act of throwing things out of a window. "See you, Judy."

Judy saw the flush on Elton's face; she knew the small, unpleasant, childish gesture had hurt him more than honest cruelty ever did. She was glad.

Elton began, then stopped. "You don't even want flowers from me, then?"

"No."

"Then why did I come up here at all?" he asked himself out aloud.

"I don't know," Judy answered.

"Whatever it was, let's finish with it, because I'm in a hurry."

"Still in a hurry?"

"Yes," she said positively.

"And you'll always be in a hurry, as far as I'm concerned?"

She nodded.

"I see, I see, Judy—" He tugged at his necktie. For the first time since she had known him, his tie was not quite perfect, his hair was not quite smooth, as though he had not bothered much about himself this evening. "Well, I guess I'm silly for sticking my chin out. But it keeps getting punched. So I'll be going."

"But you must have had some reason for coming?"

"No. None."

He put his shoulders back. They were wide shoulders. He was not his man, Judy saw. He was only tall and impressive when he could talk and impressive when he could master with his words and his eyes. And words and eyes were not serving him now. He should have done him a favor, but he had done him a disservice, he had done him outside of sympathy. Yet she knew she was faintly sorry for him. If for no other reason than because he was so ineffectual; because his cleverness was empty and pointless when he needed it most.

"Good night, Mr. Day."

"Mister—" he began with a flash of his old insolence. Then it was gone. "Yes. Good night, Miss Allison. One thing, though. You can expect some news tomorrow."

"News?"

"Yes. Ought to be good news for you."

"Wait. Tell me, Elton."

The door slammed behind him, leaving Judy puzzled, suddenly happy without quite knowing why.

"Elton!" she called.

"Elton!" Elton, with a grin wrinkling his stubby nose, appeared from the next room. "I've been eavesdropping, I have. Naughty, naughty thing to do. Little pitchers have big ears, and I've got bigger ones than that. And here's your flowers, Judy."

She extended the long box. "I thought you were going to give them to Mrs. Williams."
